Fifty Years ago in Marcellus

Marcellus Observer Thursday, October 20, 1966

Garth Snyder of 17 West Main Street he acquired from Clifford Dorchester of 55 South Street the Cliff Dorchester Appliance Store, and this week began business as Snyder Appliance.

Mr. Snyder is a Marcellus native, son of Mrs. William Snyder, Dublin Road, and the late Mr. Snyder. He is a graduate of Marcellus Central School and the Central Business Institute in Syracuse, and for the past 15 1/2 years had been employed by Cole Type-writer in Syracuse, resigning as manager.

He is married to the former Gerry Ryder of Marcellus and the couple have three children, Wendy, Craig and Jeff.

He is Master of Morning Star Lodge 524 F&AM, is an elder and former trustee of the First Presbyterian Church and for 21 years has been a member of its choir. He is also a member of the Community Chorale. 10 year National Guardsman, he was discharged in 1958 as a sergeant first class.

Mr. Dorchester, who has been in business in Marcellus since 1921, also is a native, son of the late Robert DeForest Dorchester and Sadie Weeks Dorchester. He attended Marcellus High School, and during World War I was a rural mail carrier. He studied at CCBI, and went to work in 1919 for F. T. Schoonmaker. From Dec. 1, 1921 to 1952 he was in partnership with James C. Armstrong in what is the Hickman Corner Store, running a grocery and appliance business. He acquired the business on Mr. Armstrong's retirement, and in 1957 sold the building and grocery business to the Hickmans, moving he appliance to its present location 19 East Main Street.

Mrs. Dorchester is the former Audrey Hufnagel of Oquaw, Ill. They have two sons, Robert of Rochester and Ronald of Oklahoma City, and daughter Karen at home an employee of Mohawk Airlines.

Mr. Dorchester is a Rotarian, a member of the Masonic Lodge, past elder and trustee of the Presbyterian Church and a member of the village's zoning board appeals. He plans are indefinite, although he expects to do some selling for Mr. Snyder.

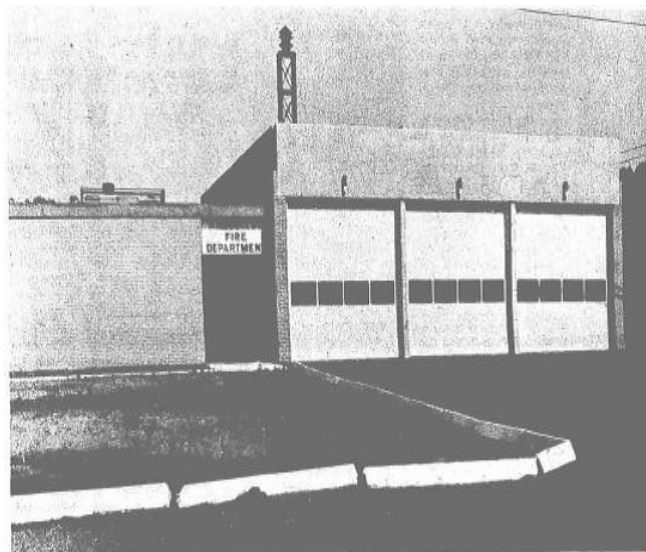

The store will continue with the Zenith franchise, Frigidaire and Universal Milking Equipment, and Mr. Snyder will add a line of typewriters, adding machines and supplies.

From The President

We have had a very busy Fall. I do not remember so many people from all across the United States visiting the Steadman House. We had fun giving tours to all these fine visitors. We also gained a number of new members, with a few of them from Marcellus who are interested in volunteering..

As I write the Steadman House is being decorated for the holidays and we are looking for the visit of Santa on December 1st.

Have a Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year.

100 Years Ago in Marcellus

Randolph B Rolle died suddenly at his home near Marietta about four P. M. Saturday, Oct. 7, aged 70. He had been in poor health some 3 years, severely ill last winter, but with return of spring he rallied and had been able to be around the past summer until Thursday he again look to his bed. Since then the decline was very rapid and the end quite sudden.

He was born at Summer Hill. N. Y. April 9, 1840, where he grew to young manhood until his parents moved to Borodino. There he married Sarah A. Baker, Jan. J5, 1868. They resided at Borodino some 7 years, since which they have lived at various localities, Moravia, Whitney Point, Skaneateles, Marcellus village, etc., until about 15 years ago they bought the Gott farm on State Road, which Eugene Wicks bought from them 7 years ago. They then returned to Marcellus village but later took the Noah Briggs farm on Otisco Lake, south of Marietta.

Mr. Rollo was descended from Connecticut revolutionary ancestry, his mother being Philomela Trumbull. The first and second governors of Connecticut were Trumbulls and one of Washington's aides was of this family. His father was Robert Chapman Rollo. He was brought up in the Presbyterian faith and sang in church choirs until his hearing failed and, barred him from this and many pleasures. In early life, too, his musical talents were unusual, inherited from a grandfather who was an artist in the musical profession in his day. Mr. Rollo played in Borodino band among other interests in music. During the final days, despite falling strength, he sat in bed and sang "Rock of Ages" inspiringly, touchingly.

Deceased was a very active man, a loyal friend and his rugged form held a kind and gentle heart within. He possessed marked ability, though unobtrusive, and by his quiet strength he gained prosperity sufficient for his comfort, enjoying the final years as best he might with his lack of hearing. He was a man of broad experience and had a rich store of pleasant and interesting incidents to relate, one of having traded horses with David Harum, celebrated by the author, David Noyes Wescott, in the book David Harum, taken from true life. Mr. Rollo had known Mr. Hannum in true life, both living in "Homerville (Homer). A great lover of horses, he delighted in their care, developed many colts and he had an unusual ability at training a horse for the track. He chanced to trade all full of burdock. Driving it, unusual burst of speed led him to earmark upon it and from that on he developed Sarah Ann until she won him lots of prize money on extended circuits in this and other states and the sold the mare for $1,400.

Mr. Rollo was a loyal friend and his rugged form held within a kind and gentle heart. He was childless but loved children with marked fondness and two were reared in the home. Neighbors in Moravia were the family of Walter Worner. They took him when 14 months old as their own and he has continued a part of their family life. A second cousin of Mrs. Rollo, Arlie Eddy, also joined the family circle in this way, until her marriage to Benj. Weeks. To them, as to all others of his younger associates, he was "Uncle Ran." They both survive, with the widow, also bother, John L Rollo of Rockwell Springs, who was with them at the time of the death. Dr. Lowell was his attending physician and Miss Jessie Fellows of Otisco has been with the family as nurse and friendly helper. All neighbors now, and former ones in Marcellus Village and other places, have been recently concerned in his condition. For his comfort an auto was obtained last year, and he has enjoyed many rides to see the country and meet friends, all of whom were quite happy to be able to greet him. It was a positive pleasure always to speak to him, to see his face light up, his recognition of the attention, his apt and able conversation; one was well repaid for the necessity of speaking loudly to him, in satisfaction and pleasure.

Funeral was held Tuesday, Oct. 10, at 2 p. m. at the home, privately, only a few close friends invited. Rev. Jay N. Taft officiated, with interment in Amber cemetery. The bearers were J. T. Schoonmaker, Dr. John Coyne, Thomas and Peter Coyne. H. S. Jones & Sons had charge. Although private, a very large number of relatives and friends were present to pay the last tribute of respect. Mrs. Kate Rollo Wood of Auburn, a niece, sang 'In the Sweet Bye and Bye', and at the close of the services 'Rock of Ages'. There were no flowers (a request of the departed), except a floral horseshoe of foliage and white roses with the word Uncle in the center. Among those from out of town attending were Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Wood of Auburn, Frank Eaton of Hornellsville, Mrs. Sarah Van Benschoten of Elmwood, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hollier, R. M. Hoxie. E. K. and B. K. Gurnee of Skaneateles; Eugene Rathbun, Frank Rathbun and daughter, Mrs. Edna Ryan of Camillus.

The November meeting had the honor to have a Pearl Harbor survivor speak to the society. Ed Stone, who is 93 years young, spoke to the society about pre-Pearl Harbor and Pearl Harbor and post-Pearl Harbor. He was very lucky to survive the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Ed is going to Pearl Harbor on December 4 through December 10. He is the Grand Marshall for the parade honoring Pearl Harbor anniversary. This will be his twelve visit.

Ed speaks to the schools in the area about Pearl Harbor. The kids are amazed at his pictures and his memory of what happened during the attack. He also speaks on his journey after Pearl Harbor during the war. He is a remarkable individual.

Ed is the last Pearl Harbor Survivor left in Syracuse..

Our heart felt thank you for your service.

Lower Woolen Mill

The Lower Woolen Mill is gone. It leaves a void with me. I drove by the mill hundreds of times while working for A.V. Smith Inc. as well as working at The Martisco Paper Mill. My parents lived just south of the mill at 66 North Street.

For the younger generation, this will be just another empty lot. We at the historical society hope we can keep all the mills alive for future generations. Doug Nightingale

Enrollment at Marcellus Central Jumps 80 to Record High 2,470

First-day enrollment at Marcellus Central School jumped to 80 pupils more than opening day 1965, with a registration of 2,470, a record high.

District Principal Lincoln C. White reported that there were 1,446 youngsters registered in grades K through 6; 600 in the grades 7, 8 and 9, and 425 in grades 10, 11 and 12.

Of the K through 4 pupils, 355 are registered at the Kasson Rd. School, the rest attending classes on the main campus.

The official attendance figure for the State Education Department will be submitted by Oct. 1, and Mr. White said he expected that there would be a few more students registered by that time.

Opening day was postponed from last week to this Monday as work was rushed in the new high school. By Monday, it was ready for occupancy and limited use.

The gymnasium, library, large group instruction and music areas have yet to be completed. The cafeteria is being used, but the kitchen will not be used for a few days, Mr. White said. The rest of the building was nearly ready Monday.

First day in the high school consisted of orientation of the pupils, with the first full session coming Tuesday. The transition to the new building was accomplished very smoothly Mr. White commented.

QUARANTINE!

Infantile Paralysis, Town and Village of Marcellus.

At a joint meeting of the Town and Village Boards of the Town and Village of Marcellus, Onondaga County, N. Y., held at Marcellus, N. Y., on August 21st, 1916, the following resolutions were adopted:

In view of the increasing spread and danger, in this vicinity, of the dread disease known as Infantile Paralysis, be it

Resolved, and it is hereby resolved, that from the above date until further action be taken by these boards, the following quarantine shall be and hereby is declared to be in force and effect within the confines of this Town and Village.

First—All persons of the age of sixteen (16) years or under who shall enter this Town or Village after the date above stated, August 21st, 1916, shall be placed under quarantine for at least two weeks from, the time of such arrival, and for a longer period should the local Health Officer deem expedient. This provision shall be enforced, regardless of the previous place of residence of such persons.

Second—All persons of the age of sixteen (16) years or under who shall, after the above date, August 21, 1916, leave this Village or Town and go into an affected district, shall, upon their return, be subjected to a quarantine for at least two weeks from the date of their return, or for a longer period of time should the local Health Officer deem it expedient. Be it further,

Resolved, and it is hereby further resolved, that any parent or guardian shall break either of these above sections of this resolution, shall and will be subject to the full penalty of the law.

These resolutions shall not apply to residents of adjacent towns attending school in this town. They may attend school in this town, providing they procure from the Health Officer of their town a certificate stating that they are free from and have not been exposed to Infantile Paralysis.

(Signed)

Town and Village Boards of Health;
Dr. J. C. Parsons, Health Officer

Our Elbridge correspondent says:

On account of the epidemic of infantile paralysis the session at the Elbridge school will not open until Monday, Sept. 15, and both churches are closed until Sunday, Sept. 24.

William DeLaney, 19, about 1-1/12 miles south of Elbridge, was stricken with infantile paralysis the latter part of last week. He died Wednesday night.

Eugene, aged 23, son of Fred Newell, died -Wednesday of paralysis. The home is north of Shepard Settlement cemetery. There are other children. Eugene was about Marcellus Friday evening and taken ill Saturday.

Marcellus has three quarantined, Edward, son of Fred E. Williams, Edna, of Postmaster Hogan's home, and Dorothy, daughter of Mrs. E. E. Marble. Each of the young people were caught away from home on vacation visits when the quarantine became effective.

George Brow, the son of G. W. Brow of The Brow Nurseries is afflicted. He lives within a mile of the two children of George Slade, reported stricken last Thursday. Brow improves.

A man named Horsington, boarder at The Alvord House, who works for Fred Griffin, is ill.

A feature of the quarantine which displeased people was that grown persons were free to go while children were confined. Yet grown-ups had the malady and there was no certainty that they did not carry it. Public sentiment prevails, and doctors will have even a harder time again impressing people. Some remarks were made that "no quarantine could detain me." It should be known that a health officer could call for forty men with shotguns to surround a quarantined house, and they could, by any force needed, confine inmates. As to the paralysis, government physicians "agree definitely that the disease is self-limited which gradually burns itself out of available material and comes to an end." Does this mean it is neither contagious nor to be carried in any form?
